Dear Colleague,

You are kindly invited to participate to the forthcoming Congress entitled PSYCHOLOGICAL TRAUMA: PRENATAL, PERINATAL & POSTNATAL ASPECTS - Origins, Consequences, Diagnostics, Therapy & Prophylactics, to be held in Belgrade, Serbia, May 15–16, 2015. The Congress will be organized by the Institute of Experimental Phonetics and Speech Pathology (IEPSP), Belgrade, Life Activities Advancement Center (LAAC), Belgrade, and International Society of Prenatal & Perinatal Psychology & Medicine (ISPPM)/Germany, under the auspices of Serbian Ministry of Education, Science & Technological Development, Association for Prenatal and Perinatal Psychology and Health (USA), Prenatal & Life Sciences, Athens, and DRF Fund for Promoting Holistic Research & Ecology of Consciousness, Belgrade.

The Congress will focus on the modern trends in theory of Psychological Trauma and applied problems of its Diagnostics, Therapy & Prophylaxis.

The aim of the Congress is to summarize modern knowledge in psychology, including prenatal and perinatal, biology, medicine, and other natural sciences in order to give the impulse for the intensification of research of psychological trauma and its consequences. It is necessary for the best understanding of this phenomenon and giving us the opportunity to find the more effective approaches and techniques of its therapy and prophylaxis.

The main topics of interest for submissions include but are not limited to:

- prenatal aspects of psychological trauma
- perinatal aspects of psychological trauma
- postnatal aspects of psychological trauma
- consciousness, cognition and psychosomatics
- integrative medicine approaches & techniques
- transpersonal psychology approaches & techniques
- transpersonal harmonization in human relationships

Organizing Committee of PTPPA 2015

1st International Congress on Psychological Trauma: Prenatal, Perinatal & Postnatal Aspects (PTPPA 2015)

May 15–16, 2015 • Belgrade, Serbia

This is the first Congress devoted to the comparative analysis of prenatal, perinatal and postnatal psychological traumas and their interaction. The main goal of this event is to give the impulse for development of doctrine of psychological trauma, and its fundamental and applied aspects.

During the Congress we plan to discuss: origins of prenatal, perinatal and postnatal psychological traumas, conditions of their occurrence, mechanisms of their formation and saving in memory, their transformation into psychological syndromes, mental illnesses or psychosomatic disorders, clinical manifestations of prenatal, perinatal and postnatal psychological traumas, pathogenesis, diagnostics, therapy, prophylactics, prognosis, and prospects for further study of the issue.

A special attention will be given to: a) possibilities of diagnostics of prenatal, perinatal and postnatal psychological traumas – separately and/or by their combination, b) therapy of patients with such psychological traumas, c) the transgeneration passing of such psychological traumas, and d) eliminating or reducing the impact of the distorted information on the psychosomatic condition and functioning of person. We will focus on the high topicality of prophylactics of the prenatal, perinatal and postnatal traumas in which the whole civilized human society should be involved.

In the framework of the Congress we expect to discuss some fundamental key questions:

- Origins, conditions and mechanisms of formation of prenatal, perinatal and postnatal psychological traumas in a man. The conditions and mechanisms of transfer the psychological trauma from mother to her unborn child. The possible mechanisms and significance of the wave ergo-informative exchange between unborn child, his mother and social and ecological environment.
- What are morphological, genetic, hormonal and other correlates of mental injuries that control unconscious motives, thinking, and behavior of a person in postnatal stage?
- Psychiatric disorders such as schizophrenia, delirium, suddenly emerging psychosis, panics, anxiety, communication disorders, predisposition to aggression and violence, and others. Are they echoes of prenatal, perinatal psychological traumas or it is a postnatal acquisition only?
- Prenatal, perinatal and postnatal psychological traumas and their psychotherapy and prevention on different levels: mother, nuclear family, extended family, religious community, society, state with its social and economic programs. Can the prenatal conditions cause them or it is genetic information only?
- Modern reproductive philosophy and technology and psychological traumas in unborn children. Assisted reproductive technologies (such as surrogacy, IVF, cloning), and birth technologies (Caesarean section, monitoring, labor induction, anesthetic methods, oth.) and their influence on the individual's postnatal life; changes in the ethics, morals and in the paradigm of human significance in the society.

Besides, we plan to discuss some specific questions:

- For psychiatrists, psychologists, and psychotherapists: Significance of events of pre-perinatal periods as one of the sources of mental disorders. The origin of habits and syndromes such as fears, phobias, autism, ADHD, neurosis, increased aggression and auto-aggression, psychosis (bipolar disorders, schizophrenia, oth.). The modernization of diagnostics and differential diagnostics taking into account the prenatal, perinatal and postnatal traumas.
- For specialists in the field of psychosomatics: Psychosomatic disorders as a consequence of prenatal, perinatal and postnatal traumas. Disorders of breath, circulation, gastric diseases, skin problems, others. Differential diagnosis, differentiated therapy, prophylactics.
- For obstetricians, midwives, pediatricians, nurses and future parents: Prevention of traumas in the early human life cycle, including prenatal care. Medical and psychological support of unborn children and their parents from the beginning of pregnancy.
- For therapists: Is there danger to undergo destructive information from mother to child during psychoanalysis in pregnancy? Should there be psychotherapy during pregnancy, to prevent the passing of destructive information from the maternal memory to the prenatal child? What is a role of ergo-informative technology in diagnostics and correction of people receiving the psychological trauma? Are there ways to protect future generations from getting destructive information and prenatal and perinatal traumas which can distort the development of the children and then adults or we are “doomed”?
